

The Case of . . . The Girl on Fire!

The Scene

Love it or hate it, twerking is a fad that seems to be here to stay. Those who dislike the provocative dance move, however, have found an example of why twerking should be banned in this video.

Although initially intended to impress the subject's boyfriend, it appears to depict a chaotic scene in which romance quickly turns to terror as her hopes, and pants, go up in flames!

With well over 2 million views on social media, this video has also been picked up by news outlets ranging from Fox News to MSNBC to The View, with several commentators warning parents to talk to their kids about the dangers of twerking.

Possible Clues (Questions to Think About)

- Triggers: How does this information make you feel about the people involved? Does that play a role in making you want to like/share it?
- Access: Does the app being used make it easier or more difficult to locate the primary versus the secondary source?
- Forensics: How can we locate the original source of the information?
- Motives: If this story turns out to be false or misleading, what kind of person would create/spread it?

Is seeing believing, or are this liar's pants really on fire?
